

Double bucket job

Two buckets are better than one when working on a 69,000-volt power line, even with the power off. These Missouri Public Service Co. workmen used the bucket-trucks Thursday morning while replacing worn-out crossbars which support the wire along Washington Ave. The one line supplies power for Cole Camp, Warsaw and Lincoln. However, an MPS spokesman said that the communities were being supplied by alternative lines Thursday.

Public works bill facing a showdown

WASHINGTON (AP) — With support from a delegation of mayors, congressional Democrats who overrode President Ford's veto of a $45-billion spending bill are moving toward a new confrontation over a $6.1-billion public works measure that backers claim would create some 800,000 jobs.

Besides authorizing money for projects designed to create jobs, the public works bill before the House today would grant federal funds during times of high unemployment to state and local governments faced with the alternatives of firing employees or raising taxes.

The Ford administration opposes the measure and House Republican Leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona described it as a prime target for a veto, if it is passed.

About 125 members of the U.S. Conference of Mayors conferred with the Democratic leadership before buttonholing House members in a drive for passage with enough votes to override a veto.

"There is no question in my mind that we are going to pass this legislation," Majority Leader Thomas P. O'Neill of Massachusetts told the mayors. "But it is the overwhelming majority we need."

Newark Mayor Kenneth Gibson said the delegation would "make sure we talk to the President this afternoon in an appropriate fashion, giving due respect to the office and making sure we get that bill signed."

The measure was up for floor action a day after the Democratic-controlled Congress overrode Ford's veto of a bill funding politically popular health, welfare and job programs at a level almost $1 billion above the President's budget.

Ford lost his first spending battle of the election-year session Wednesday when the Senate voted 70 to 24 to override the veto. The margin was seven more than the two-thirds vote needed to override. The House voted Tuesday to override, 310 to 113.

Ford, in vetoing the measure, said it would "contribute to excessive deficits and needless inflationary pressures." He said the measure would add 8,000 people to the federal payroll, saying, "I find it difficult to believe the majority of the American people favor increasing the number of employees on the federal payroll."

But Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., GOP manager of the bill, declared that the measure was only 2.6 per cent over Ford's budget, "which was woefully inadequate to begin with."

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, said the bill did not exceed Congress' own budget, although it was over Ford's budget.

Oklahoma caucuses could determine fate of Bentsen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen's Democratic presidential campaign is facing a crucial test in Oklahoma in nine days and a poor showing there could force him out of the national race, according to sources close to the senator.

The Texas Democrat was fourth in a field of five candidates in the Mississippi caucuses last week with less than 2 per cent of the delegates. He needs a respectable finish in Oklahoma's Feb. 7 caucuses to prove he has support in his own region of the country.

One source close to Bentsen said if the senator comes in a weak third in Oklahoma, trailing former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter and the state's former senator, Fred Harris, he may have to drop out.

"It would be pretty tough" to overcome such a poor showing, the source said. "He'd have to slide out or say it ain't possible. That's his neighboring state. He's got to run strong."

Meanwhile, busing to achieve school desegregation was brought up as an issue in campaigning Wednesday. Republican challenger Ronald Reagan, campaigning in New Hampshire, said he opposes busing but "the law is the law." And Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, a Democratic candidate touring Massachusetts, called for a constitutional amendment that would make busing voluntary.

The Bentsen source said that after talking with Oklahoma politicians he believes that in a statewide, popular ballot "Bentsen would win hands down." But in party caucuses, moderate candidates have difficulty persuading supporters to participate.

Campaign director Robert Healy refused to predict how Bentsen would finish in Oklahoma, saying only, "I think Oklahoma is going to be important for us."

Until the poor showing in Mississippi, Oklahoma was important to the Bentsen campaign, but it was just one in a series of states where Bentsen hoped to show he could attract support while some of his competition was eliminated in the early primaries.

Mrs. Hausam resigns from board

Henningsen accepts longer contract

The Board of Education has accepted the resignation of board member Mrs. Jean E. Hausam and extended Superintendent of Schools Dr. Allan Henningsen's contract through June 30, 1978.

The action was taken at a closed board meeting Tuesday night, Henningsen said Thursday morning.

The 3.4 per cent wage increase gives Henningsen an annual income of $30,249, it was reported by Glenn M. (Mack) Kell Jr., board president. The new contract will span two years and is renewable annually, meaning further increases in pay could come the next time the contract is up for review.

The contract was extended by the board and accepted by Henningsen Tuesday, he said.

Mrs. Hausam, who was elected to a three-year term on the board in 1970 and to another three-year term in 1974, said in a letter she was resigning due to her husband's retirement and their subsequent move to near Lincoln.

Mrs. Hausam requested her resignation become effective this coming Sunday, but the board voted to make it effective Tuesday, Henningsen said.

Her spot on the board will be left vacant until the April 16 election, Henningsen said, at which time a candidate will be elected to serve the remaining one year on her three-year term.

In announcing her resignation, Mrs. Hausam said, "I have enjoyed my association with the many fine people connected with the teaching profession in Sedalia. I am proud to have served in this position."

Two other persons also will be elected April 16 to serve three-year terms now held by Dr. Chester Kirkpatrick and Donald Barnes.

Neither Kirkpatrick or Barnes plan to file for re-election. Commenting on his six years on the board, Kirkpatrick said he believed the group's greatest accomplishment during those years "was our compliance with Federal HEW (Department of Health, Education and Welfare) requirements. A lot of work was spent in this area and I feel satisfied that it was solved satisfactorily."

His greatest disappointment, he added, "was the fact that the junior high school building situation is still not completely resolved." Kirkpatrick was referring to the lingering legal dispute between the board and the Don "L" Bron Construction Co., Kansas City, the contractor for the building.

Barnes, who was first elected to the (Please see CONTRACT, Page 4)

Administration may ask for overt aid to Angola

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said today the administration is now considering whether to ask Congress for overt financial aid for anti-Soviet factions in Angola.

Kissinger told the Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on African affairs that the Soviet Union's massive and unprecedented intervention in Angola "is a matter of urgent concern."

Both the House and the Senate have approved amendments to bar continued covert military aid to anti-Soviet forces in Angola.

"The effort of the Soviet Union and Cuba to take unilateral advantage of a turbulent local situation where they have never had any historic interests is a willful, direct assault upon recent constructive trends in U.S.-Soviet relations and our efforts to improve relations with Cuba," Kissinger said.

"Those who have acted so recklessly must be made to see that their conduct is unacceptable," he added.

Kissinger said that peace in the world requires a sense of security that depends upon some form of equilibrium between the great powers.

"And that equilibrium is impossible unless the United States remains both strong and determined to use its strength when required," he said. "This is our historic responsibility, for no other nation has the capacity to act in this way."

Referring to overwhelming votes in the House and Senate denying military appropriation funds to continue covert military assistance in Angola, Kissinger said, "Congress has deprived the President of indispensable flexibility in formulating a foreign policy which we believe to be in our national interest."

He appealed for a new cooperative relationship between Congress and the executive.

"On the issue of Angola," he said, "the administration is now seriously considering overt financial aid and we will soon be consulting with the Congress on this possibility."

Kissinger said that, "If a continent such as Africa, only recently freed from external oppression, can be made the arena for great power ambitions... then all we have hoped for in building a more stable and rational international order is in jeopardy."

Kissinger said Angola represents the first time since the aftermath of World War II that the Soviets "have moved militarily at long distances to impose a regime of their choice."

It also is the first time the United States has failed to respond to Soviet military moves outside their immediate orbit and the first time that Congress has halted executive action in meeting that kind of threat, Kissinger said.

The secretary said the United States' objectives in Angola are not aimed at defending or acquiring interests in that country.

Soviet influence in Africa detailed to House committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia has naval and air access to 16 ports and airfields around the rim of Africa, the Pentagon says.

Most of these sites are strategically located in relation to shipping lanes between the United States and the Persian Gulf oil lands, as well as those running through the Mediterranean.

These locations in nine countries, including Angola, appear on a map distributed Wednesday after Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld displayed it to the House Armed Services Committee. The map did not identify those ports and airfields that the United States and other NATO members have access to.

In testimony a day earlier, Rumsfeld had expressed concern about Soviet activities in Africa and had suggested that victory by Russian-backed forces in the Angola civil war would encourage the Soviets to widen their efforts on that continent.

The Pentagon also listed nearly $3 billion in Soviet military and economic aid over the past five years to 11 African countries, four of them usually identified with the Arab bloc and seven south of the Sahara. About two-thirds was in military assistance.

The biggest single recipient was Egypt which, according to the Pentagon, got nearly $1.7 billion in arms and economic help from the Soviet Union in the 1971-1975 period. Much of that was provided during and soon after Egypt's 1973 war with Israel.

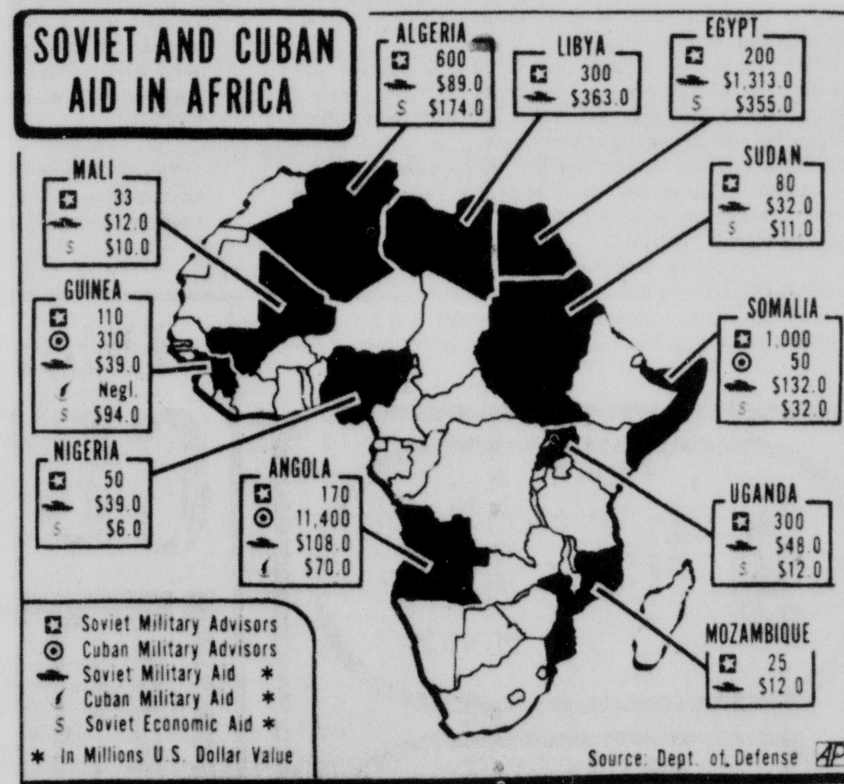

Since then, Soviet arms shipments to Egypt have been cut to a trickle because of policy differences between Cairo and Moscow.

Angola has received $108 million in Soviet military aid, the Pentagon map showed. This is less than the $200 million figure used recently by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. However, Kissinger could have been counting $70 million in military assistance which the Pentagon credits to Cuba.

Other countries listed as Soviet aid recipients are Algeria, Libya, Sudan, Somalia, Guinea, Mali, Nigeria, Uganda and Mozambique.

Moroccans, Algerians using tanks, artillery

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Heavy fighting flared between Moroccan and Algerian forces in the Spanish Sahara for the third straight day today, with both sides throwing tanks and heavy artillery into the battle, military sources in Paris reported.

In Rabat, Moroccan officials said heavy casualties were reported among Algerian troops in the area of Amghala, about 175 miles southwest of the Algerian border. The officials said Moroccan forces now hold nearly 50 Algerian soldiers as prisoners. There was no indication of the number of Moroccan casualties.

Algerian President Houari Boumedienne sent messages to the chiefs of state of all Communist and nonaligned nations, accusing Morocco of military aggression "in collusion with Spain" and asking for help in securing independence for the people of the Spanish Sahara.

Under an agreement signed in Madrid last November, Spain agreed to hand over the phosphate-rich territory to Morocco and Mauritania and withdraw all its forces and administrators by Feb. 28.

Morocco said Wednesday it captured 17 more Algerian soldiers and rescued a captive Spanish officer in the Spanish Sahara.

The fighting Wednesday was also reported by an Algerian communique. Few details were given, and there was no verification from independent sources.

Avoiding conflicts of interest

Wives of politicians establish identities, contribute to family income by working

No campaigning for her

During an interview in Washington last week, Marvella Bayh, wife of presidential candidate Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., said she won't campaign for her husband this year because she would have to give up her job as a television reporter.

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — With one eye on the dollar sign and the other on avoiding conflicts of interest, many of the capital's better known women are taking jobs.

The problems of conflict of interest were accentuated earlier this week when Marion Javits, wife of Sen. Jacob B. Javits, R-N.Y., resigned her $67,500 job as publicity agent for Iran's national airline after being criticized for possible conflicts. Her husband, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, is involved with a number of U.S. foreign policy activities affecting Iran.

These working women, most of them wives of prominent politicians, joined the workers' ranks from motives that encompassed boredom with the tea-party, bandage-rolling, ladies-luncheon syndrome or a desire to establish their own identities or contribute to the family income.

The jobs also are varied. Joyce Rumsfeld, wife of the secretary of defense, helps out in a Georgetown boutique. Lou Tower and Antoinette Hatfield, senators' wives, are in the real estate business.

Perhaps the most successful businesswoman of them all is Betty Talmadge, wife of the senator who's chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee. She runs a multimillion dollar meat brokerage business.

For many, it's the first time they have had a job. Most have waited for their children to at least grow old enough not to be met after school. Usually the women try to keep their schedules flexible to allow for official or social obligations.

Most say they couldn't live on their income alone.

"It was once said that I am making ends meet by working," said Mrs. Rumsfeld, a chic woman of 43, mother of three, who works two days a week in a friend's clothing store. "That is certainly overdoing my contribution. It does help. But I'm not a business giant in the community."

Other Washington women who have entered the business world include Ellen Proxmire, wife of Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who runs a catering business for weddings and conventions; Mrs. Walter F. Mondale, wife of the Minnesota Democrat, who works as a tour guide; and Joan Lynn, wife of President Ford's budget director, who works in a gift boutique as a saleswoman.

Like Mrs. Tower, 55, who went to the University of Maryland for her real estate license and started a real estate firm with two partners last fall, most of the women have had little background in business.

"But I wanted to make some money," said Mrs. Tower, the mother of three college-age daughters. "Without outside income or independent wealth, it's hard to keep a house in Washington and another somewhere else." Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., and his wife own a house in Texas and an apartment in Washington.

Almost all the women interviewed said they deliberately chose jobs that would pose no conflicts of interest for their husbands.

Velvet chair needs professional care

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — I hung a paper towel holder low enough for the kiddies to reach when they need a quick cleanup after play. This saves me a lot of trouble and there are not so many towels to launder. — MARY S.

DEAR POLLY — When I am wrapping gifts or packages I fold the paper where I want it cut and then tear with a letter opener. This is quick, neat and straight. — RUTH.

DEAR POLLY — My Pete Peeve is with lunch boxes that rust on the bottom and with paint peeling on the inside. My family has had this experience with several and I suppose it happens from that daily Monday through Friday washing. Any suggestions, anyone? — L.C.S.

DEAR POLLY — I have discovered a wonderful non-abrasive cleaner to use on my white glass top stove. I make a thick paste of baking soda and water and rub off the stubborn stains that do occur on these stove tops. This works beautifully and is more economical than cleaners. It does not scratch and leaves the top white as new. I also use this on the bottoms of my pots and sauce pans made of the same type glassware. — NORMA.

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY — I would appreciate hearing about a way I could clean an olive green velvet chair. — MRS. R.L.C.

DEAR MRS. R.L.C. — and the many others who have-asked about cleaning velvet covered upholstered furniture — Personally I feel that home cleaning of velvet covered upholstered furniture is asking for trouble. I would NEVER shampoo a piece covered with velvet or any other pile fabric and strongly feel they should be professionally cleaned. Some cleaners will do this in the home. If it is necessary for one to do this, first open the windows or take the piece out of doors. Pour dry cleaning fluid and go over the piece with long strokes making sure that each one overlaps another. The pile in velvet will have to be brushed up after it is dry.

A cleaning powder might be a bit easier. When used sprinkle over a small area, brush in and go on to the next area. Leave on as long as directions say. When powder seems very dry remove with vacuum upholstery brush. Test anything to be used under a cushion or other hidden spot. — POLLY.

Serve coconut custard for lunch-time dessert

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

COMPANY LUNCH
Seafood Stew Rolls
Salad Bowl
Coconut Custard
COCONUT CUSTARD

4 eggs
1-3rd cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 cups milk
3/4 cup flaked coconut, not packed down

Beat eggs slightly; stir in sugar, salt and vanilla. Scald milk; gradually add to egg mixture, stirring as you do so. Divide the coconut among six 6-ounce glass custard cups; pour custard mixture into cups. Set cups in a deep 13 by 9 inch pan; pour enough very hot tap water into the pan to have it come up about 1/2-inch below custard mixture. Bake in a preheated 325-degree oven until a knife inserted halfway between edge and center comes out clean — 40 minutes. Remove from hot water. Chill.

At serving time, loosen edges and turn out. Delicious served with sweetened raspberries or strawberries or brandied cherries, apricots or peaches. Makes 6 servings.

Statewide reassessment bill to House floor

Tax exemptions for drugs pass committee

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A bill allowing sales tax exemptions for prescription drugs narrowly passed a House Committee Wednesday. The committee earlier had rejected the exemption, but a modified proposal which would supposedly recover the $3 million dollar loss in annual tax revenue helped the measure gain passage.

The change would end tax exemptions currently allowed for machinery and equipment purchased for expansion or new manufacturing. Revenue Department officials said that exemption was currently being abused and was hard to police.

Also sent to the House floor for consideration was a measure calling for statewide property tax reassessments by the end of 1979 in an effort to bring all property up to the required 33 and one third assessment of true market value.

A small loan interest rate bill which increases the amount covered from $500 to $5,000 and includes a consumer protection measure passed the House Banking and Finance Committee.

Two bills were sent to the House floor from the Consumer Protection Committee. One expands the merchandising practices act to cover all merchandise and to require a statement of mileage on all automobile sales. The panel also approved a measure requiring lending institutions to advise the state twice a year on where they are lending money for homes.

An amended version of a bill defining the admissibility of evidence in rape trials passed a House committee. The amendment allows evidence of prior sexual conduct with the defendant to be introduced without any time restrictions. Also evidence of sexual promiscuity of the complaining witness would be admissible.

A revision of Missouri's new campaign finance law to exempt from income disclosure statements those candidates who spend less than $500 and receive less than $1,000 for elective office was discussed in the House Elections committee hearing.

A proposal to have the Legislature work 100 days spread over the entire year instead of the current four months in even numbered year sessions and six months in odd-numbered years was given a cool reception in a Senate committee. Opponents fear the amendment, which would need voter approval, would result in a full-time legislature.

The sales tax exemption for prescription drugs was sent to the House floor on a 7-5 vote by the Revenue and Economics Committee, with opponents complaining that a full-scale hearing should be held because the bill had been substantially altered. They also disputed the various estimates of its economic impact.

Revenue Department officials estimated the termination of tax exemptions for machinery would provide between $3 million and $8 million a year in revenue.

The exemption of prescription drugs has been made a top priority by the Democratic leadership in the House. But Gov. Christopher S. Bond has said he will not approve a tax cut or tax increase this year in light of the economic conditions for both the state and private business and individuals.

The tax assessment measure, a combination of four bills, was prompted by mounting concern over inequities in current assessments both within and between counties.

Black U.S. vets being recruited

WASHINGTON (AP) — Black American veterans are being recruited here to fight in Angola, and organizers say several hundred ex-military men are ready to join in the civil war there alongside Western-backed forces next month.

Organizer Larry Mitchell, a 34-year-old Vietnam veteran who works as a technician in Washington-area hospital, refused to say who is footing the bill for his mercenary expedition, but he would not rule out the CIA.

On Wednesday, Mitchell said his phone was ringing off the hook — the result of a weekend advertisement he placed in several newspapers: "Veterans Wanted — Medical and technical skills and willing to travel."

Meanwhile, dozens of British mercenaries flew out of London on Wednesday, bound for Africa and the Angola fighting.

100 others reportedly followed later in the day.

In Zambia, Roy Innis of the New York-based Congress for Racial Equality said he would seek black Americans to fight in Angola.

Innis said CORE cannot legally recruit U.S. volunteers, but he said CORE legally can sign up medical technicians to serve in Angola.

"If a combat veteran puts a medical badge on his arm and fools me, if someone says to me he's going there to stick needles in arms and then he picks up a rifle, I can't help that," Innis said.

More than 200 men have been enrolled in the private combat corps being formed in Washington, Mitchell said, including black Army, Navy and Marine veterans, ranging from the unemployed to a Washington policeman and a law firm messenger.

School financing plan revised

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — "This is a balanced approach for school financing. This is a bill that is fairly well balanced throughout the state," according to Rep. Wayne Goode, sponsor of the revision of the state's complex formula for distributing state school aid.

And after conceding to House members who wanted to gradually phase the new formula in over a period of years, Goode gained tentative approval of his measure Wednesday. It must still be finally approved before going to the Senate, where a similar bill was killed last year.

The House also gave preliminary approval to a revised day-care center licensing bill while the Senate finally approved and sent to the House bills to double the budget of the St. Louis Court of Criminal Causes and hike pay for members of the state Board of Probation and Parole.

The Senate also gave final approval to a number of 18-year-old majority rights bills, sending them across the Capitol to the House.

The revised school aid formula, which also includes an increase for all school districts in state support for pupil transportation, is intended to more fairly distribute the nearly $400 million in state aid among Missouri's 570 school districts.

It gives more aid to rural districts with low tax bases and increased funds to urban districts with "special problems."

It would also take into consideration in calculating the amount due each district the enrollment of the school as well as the average daily attendance. Only attendance is used now, and districts with high absenteeism are penalized even though their facilities must be capable of handling the entire enrollment.

Under the law, however, 80 per cent of the state funds must go for teacher salaries.

The House approved tight controls on the weight given to districts with high welfare family concentrations, requiring that only the number of welfare children who actually attend school can be counted in the formula calculations.

Under the bill as originally introduced, an estimated 66 school districts would receive reduced state aid when it goes into effect in the 1977-1978 school year. Forty-six others would have experienced either slight decreases or increases and the remainder would record substantial hikes in aid.

But the House approved a provisions to delay full implementation of the revised formula for between seven and 10 years, ensuring that through 1980 no district would receive less than it does next year.

While Goode said he opposed the idea of delaying, he acknowledged that "we can't take the money all away at once and a gradual decline is reasonable."

Pomme de Terre leads 11 lakes in attendance

KANSAS CITY (AP) — More than 14 million people visited the 11 lakes operated in Kansas, Missouri, Iowa and Nebraska by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers last year, an increase of 8 per cent over 1974.

Richard Curl, district engineer, said Wednesday total attendance increased from 13,088,000 in 1974 to 14,127,000.

Curl said fishing attracted 20 per cent of the people visiting the lakes, while camping was the second leading attraction at 16 per cent. Boating and swimming each accounted for another 15 per cent of the total attendance.

The biggest increase in attendance was at Melvern Lake in eastern Kansas, which was not formally dedicated until June 1975. Visitors there increased from 402,000 to 882,000.

The largest attendance was recorded at Pomme de Terre Lake near Hermitage, Mo., where the number of visitors was up 31 per cent to 2,253,000.

Increases were also reported at Rathbun Lake in Iowa, 19 per cent, and four lakes in Kansas—Wilson, 13 per cent; Tuttle Creek, 11 per cent; Milford, 6 per cent, and Kanopolis, 5 per cent.

Decreases were reported at Harlan County Lake in Nebraska, down 20 per cent; Stockton Lake in Missouri, down 1 per cent, and two Kansas lakes—Perry, 15 per cent, and Pomona, 12 per cent.

Scare charge leveled at baby food company

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — One of the nation's largest makers of baby foods is trying to scare mothers away from using homemade foods for their infants, the city's consumer affairs department charges.

Roberta Wielosznyski, the city agency's director, said Wednesday she has subpoenaed executives of the Baker Beech-Nut Co. to a Feb. 4 hearing to justify distribution of 760,000 flyers warning of the potential dangers of homemade baby food.

Beech-Nut Vice President William Mallison said, "While it may appear to be self-serving, our intent was to inform mothers to avoid particular items. We felt we were performing a public service."

A Beech-Nut lawyer added that the city has no jurisdiction over the firm, because "Beech-

Nut is not engaged in doing business in Syracuse."

Mrs. Wielosznyski replied, "If the flyer could be supported, why not do so? Why suggest to Syracuse mothers who've been buying Beech-Nut products that the company doesn't do business in Syracuse? I'm sure that must come as some surprise to people who have trusted and bought Beech-Nut products in Syracuse stores."

Death Notices

George R. Fowler

George Ralph Fowler, 72, 2321 South Engineer, died at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday at Bothwell Hospital.

He was born in New Boston, Iowa, Feb. 26, 1903, son of the late William A. and Elizabeth Brumagen Fowler. He married Olive Hall, March 24, 1925, who survives, of the home.

He had lived here the last two years and retired from United Shoe Machine Corp. in 1962. He was a member of the Methodist Church and Mt. Moriah Lodge No. 40, A.F. and A.M. in Clayton.

Also surviving are a brother, Harry Fowler, 646 East Fifth; and two sisters, Mrs. Edna Decker, St. Louis; and Mrs. Lula Presley, St. Ann, Mo.

Masonic services will be held at 9 a.m. Friday at the Heckart-Gillespie Colonial Chapel.

Graveside services will be held at 1 p.m. Friday at the Laurel Hills Cemetery, St. Louis.

The family will receive friends from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Thursday at the funeral home.

Henry Fels

CLINTON — Henry Fels, 81, died Tuesday evening at the Golden Valley Memorial Hospital here.

He was born June 14, 1894, in Senden, Germany, son of Bernard and Maria Tilling Fels. He married Elizabeth Putthoff, who survives, of the home. He has lived here since 1922 and operated a jewelry store.

He was a member of Holy Rosary Catholic Church and the Elks Lodge, both of Clinton.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Karen Gibson, Wenatchee, Wash.; and two grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Friday at the church with the Rev. Roger Blais officiating.

Burial will be in Englewood Cemetery here.

The rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Sickman-Dunning & Fisher Chapel here.

Mrs. Sylvia Chancellor

Funeral services for Mrs. Sylvia Mary Chancellor, 72, of 1705 South Osage, who died Tuesday morning at Bothwell Hospital, will be held at 1 p.m. Friday at the Ewing Funeral Home with the Rev. Donald Curtis, pastor of the First United Pentecostal Church, officiating.

Pallbearers will be William Copp, Woodrow Brown, Lloyd Schouten, Homer Thomas, Pete McKinney and Robert McFail.

Friends may call from 7 to 9 p.m. Thursday at the funeral home.

Burial will be in Memorial Park Cemetery.

Guilty plea heard to lower charges

COLUMBIA — Dana L. Jenkins, 18, Walnut Hills, pleaded guilty to reduced felony charges of possession of a controlled substance in Boone County Circuit Court here Thursday morning.

Jenkins was originally arrested on a Pettis County grand jury indictment charging him with selling 100 amphetamine tablets last Sept. 18 for $165 to federal agents in Sedalia.

Pettis County Prosecuting Attorney Gary Fleming said the charge was reduced because Jenkins was not an active participant in the sale.

A pre-sentence investigation of Jenkins was ordered. Jenkins is free on $5,000 bond, pending sentencing on April 12.

Burial will be in the Versailles Cemetery.

Second officer is suspended for sleeping

The second Sedalia police officer to be found asleep on duty within two weeks was suspended by Interim Police Chief James Reynolds Wednesday.

Officer John DeJarnette, 2200 South Washington, was reportedly given a five-day suspension, without pay, effective Wednesday.

One source told The Democrat-Capital that DeJarnette was found asleep in a patrol car at Main and Mill about 5 a.m. Wednesday by Cpl. Jack Comer.

The information was verified Thursday morning by Mayor Jerry Jones.

Reynolds said Wednesday that "there was some disciplinary action taken but it was a rules and regulations type of thing." He declined to disclose further details, saying, "if this individual wants to disclose it, he can."

He said that the offense was "minor" and said "if it offended the public and were involved with occupation, I would have no recourse ..." other than to make the offense public.

"I don't think there's really any reason to embarrass this individual," Reynolds said.

DeJarnette could not be reached Thursday for comment. It was not known if he would appeal the suspension to the Police Personnel Board. City Clerk Ralph Dedrick said that DeJarnette had not filed an appeal with his office as of noon Thursday.

On Jan. 12, Officer William (Jack) Erwin, 511 East Fifth, was suspended for five days without pay for the same offense. Erwin was allegedly found asleep by Lt. John McDonald and Sgt. Joseph Bass while Erwin was in a patrol car driven by Officer Roland Shuck.

Court splits case; man bound to trial, woman to hospital

The case of Stephen Allan Henderson, 20, Jefferson City, and Anna Pauline Jeude, 18, Kansas City, both charged with second-degree burglary and stealing, was separated Wednesday afternoon in Magistrate Court.

Magistrate Court Judge Hazel Palmer ordered Miss Jeude to undergo a mental examination at the state hospital in Fulton prior to her preliminary hearing. Henderson was bound over to the April term of Circuit Court after his preliminary hearing Wednesday afternoon.

The two allegedly broke into the One-Hour Martinizing building, 1718 West Broadway, Jan. 12, taking about $15 in cash, a watch, a tape recorder adapter and a microphone. They were arrested by police the next morning.

They remain in the county jail in lieu of $3,500 bond each.

Cattle die after eating soybeans

Toxic soybeans have caused the deaths of 16 beef cattle on the Tony Simon farm, Route 3. Another six or seven head are expected to die, Mrs. Simon said.

The cattle poked through an unlocked door of a granary Sunday, Mrs. Simon said, and ate the soybeans, which are toxic in the unprocessed state. The beans ferment, swell and bloat cattle.

Mrs. Simon said the granary door is always kept double-locked, and she theorized that someone unlocked it.

The Simon farm is located about 6 miles west of Sedalia on 16th Street Road.

Mrs. Atkins believes Webb was the disguised attacker

CALIFORNIA, Mo. (AP) — A hooded, knife-wielding woman who attacked Carolyn Atkins at the Women's Correctional Facility at Tipton last fall was an inmate at the institution, according to sworn testimony here Wednesday.

Mrs. Atkins, frail in appearance, testified in Moniteau County Magistrate Court, saying that she believed Kathy Webb, 34, an inmate at Tipton, was the disguised assailant who beat and stabbed her "at least nine times" outside her home last September.

Mrs. Atkins was the superintendent of the facility at the time of the attack.

Miss Webb faced two preliminary hearings Wednesday, one for escape from Tipton the night preceding the attack and another for assault with intent to kill Mrs. Atkins. She was bound over on both counts for circuit court trials set for April 5.

Miss Webb's court-appointed lawyer, A. Gary Schmidt, filed motions earlier this month saying his defendant was denied a fair trial because of improper psychiatric examinations.

But Magistrate Henry Keeler dismissed both motions.

"The knife was coming from all over," Mrs. Atkins said, in her first public appearance since the attack. She said her assailant was covered with a black face mask, along with black gloves and nylons and a light colored coat.

"I recognized her immediately. I know her features," Mrs. Atkins said.

"Oh no, Kathy, help!" Mrs. Atkins said she screamed.

The corrections official said the incident occurred Sept. 18 as she was entering her home across from the facility, and that the attacker came at her from inside the house with a cane owned by Mrs. Atkins and a knife.

Mrs. Atkins testified the assailant beat her with the cane and then began stabbing her with an estimated six-inch to nine-inch knife.

She was treated for her injuries at a Jefferson City hospital and has been recuperating in Los Angeles. During the hearing she gave a St. Louis address.

While in Los Angeles, Mrs. Atkins swore in an affidavit that she thought prison staff members had a hand in the attack.

But no evidence supporting that theory was aired during the hearing.

Donald Hicks, an inmate on assignment at the Tipton Prison, testified he heard Mrs. Atkins' screams and saw the assailant plunge the knife into her back.

Mrs. Atkins testified she saw Hicks apprehend the attacker near the side of the house.

No pleas of innocence or guilt were presented at the Wednesday hearing. Keelers said the scope of the hearing only dealt with whether a crime had been committed and whether there is probable cause to show the defendant did it.

Schmidt brought up the fact that often the main guard house in front of the Tipton facility goes unguarded.

Mrs. Atkins confirmed that the guardhouse had been vacant at times, but said it was due to a lack of staffing.

Jerry McCarty, Moniteau County sheriff, said the security at the Tipton facility has increased considerably since the September attack.

Two House members of a special subcommittee studying the state's correctional facilities also attended the hearings.

Rep. DeVerne Calloway, D-St. Louis, said they came to see the hearing and give Mrs. Atkins "a little moral support" because she said the corrections official had expressed some fear about testifying.

During a recess, Mrs. Atkins said she planned to stay in the state's correctional system, but has asked that she be transferred from Tipton.

When Schmidt began to cross examine Mrs. Atkins about the alleged conspiracy against the corrections supervisor, Prosecutor Clarence Hawk objected, saying such material falls outside the framework of the preliminary hearing.

Keeler agreed and sustained Hawk's objections.

Miss Webb was serving a 25-year sentence for armed robbery in Kansas City.

President stands up for Moynihan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford says he "completely approves" of the way United Nations Ambassador Daniel P. Moynihan is conducting his office, the second presidential vote of confidence given the fiery diplomat in as many months.

Ford issued a statement Wednesday endorsing Moynihan, who last week sent a classified cable to Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger complaining that elements in the State Department were undermining his work at the United Nations.

Kissinger also expressed on Wednesday his feeling that Moynihan is "doing an outstanding job" and said Moynihan has "the full support" of the department.

At the U.N., Moynihan issued a statement that said Ford had telephoned him at midday to give him the go-ahead to continue "committed but candid" U.S. participation in the U.N.

Moynihan's cable described as successful his controversial confrontation methods in the U.N. aimed, he said, at "breaking up the massive blocs of nations, which for so long have been arrayed against us in international forums and in diplomatic encounters generally."

Ford's press secretary, Ron Nessen, said of the complaint against State, "It's a routine exercise in Washington bureaucracy that not everybody always agrees with what someone else might be doing."

A State Department spokesman read a statement, approved by Kissinger, to reporters, saying, "Newspapers must ask themselves what their responsibility is when they consider publication of such documents."

A text of the cable was carried by The New York Times Wednesday.

Administration

"We are not opposing any particular faction," he said. "We could develop constructive relations with any Angolan government that derives from the will of the people."

"Our objective is clear and simple: To help those African countries and those groups within Angola that would resist external aggression by providing them with needed financial support," he said.

But he said a deeper concern is for global stability. "If the United States is seen to emasculate itself in the face of massive, unprecedented Soviet and Cuban intervention, what will be the perception of the leaders around the world as they make decisions concerning their future security?" Kissinger asked.

Sen. Dick Clark, D-Iowa, the subcommittee chairman, warned in his opening statement that "it would be a serious mistake for the administration to continue assistance to the (anti-Soviet) factions without further congressional approval."

He said the United States has no strategic interests in Angola and neither does the Soviet Union.

"We must certainly ask whether it is wise policy to react to Soviet actions anywhere in the world, whether it involves our strategic or economic interests or not," Clark said.

"If we follow this policy, it means that we must react even if the Soviets are themselves making a mistake — in short, it means that we are indeed the

Public disclosure before full House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fight between President Ford and the House intelligence committee over what secrets should be made public is being thrown into the full House.

The House was to vote today on a resolution directing the committee either to keep the information secret or get President Ford's clearance to publicly release it.

Rep. James H. Quillen, R-Tenn., said he was thinking about asking for a secret House session, the first in 145 years, so members could hear what the information is.

The resolution that would order the committee how to handle the secret information was approved by the House Rules Committee 9 to 7 late Wednesday.

It forced a full House vote on the overriding issue between the committee and the Ford administration: Whether congressional committees have the right to obtain top secret information and then decide how much of it should be made public.

The secret information includes details on U.S. submarine spying on Soviet missile launchings and CIA aid for Angola, Kurdish rebels and Italian political parties.

Prospective jurors quizzed in private

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst's trial for bank robbery, described by the judge at the start as the "most fully covered case in the country," has gone behind closed doors while the jury is picked.

policemen of the world and that our policy is not an independent one but rather a reacting one, determined by our adversary."

The subcommittee has been given a State Department memo that one senator says may have pushed the Soviet-backed Angolan faction closer to the Soviet Union and Cuba.

Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., sent a copy of the memo to the subcommittee, asking that Kissinger be asked about it and its effect on the Soviet-backed Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola.

He said the memo, which was handed to an MPLA representative in Washington on Dec. 11, was regarded by MPLA leaders as a U.S. ultimatum and as evidence that there was no prospect of the faction improving its relations with the United States.

The memo, Tunney said, advised MPLA leaders that "the United States is unwilling to condone an Angolan regime under Soviet control" and warned that "no government can plan reconstruction in post-war Angola without American and Western help."

The United States, however, "would be quite responsive and helpful to a coalition government that was not dependent on the Soviet Union," Tunney quoted the memo as saying.

The full House vote was ordered by the Rules Committee after some members contended that public disclosure of the secrets would violate an agreement with Ford.

The committee agreed to a compromise with Ford in September that the committee could obtain secrets and move to publicly disclose information — but not release any that Ford personally declared would hurt U.S. national security if made public.

But a nine-member majority of the intelligence committee, including Chairman Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., later said that agreement could not dictate what information could be put in the final report to the House.

Pike told the Rules Committee, "We could not carry out our mandate if we said to the President — and that means saying to the CIA and the FBI — you can veto anything you want in our final report."

Rep. Robert McClory, R-Ill., and Rep. Dale Milford, D-Texas, who drafted the proposed House directive to the committee, contended public disclosure of the secrets violates the agreement with Ford regardless of whether the disclosure is in the committee's final report.

A critical preliminary phase — the questioning of prospective jurors about the effects of massive publicity given Miss Hearst between her 1974 kidnapping and her arrest last Sept. 18 — is being conducted in private.

U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter left more than 100 reporters representing newspapers from many parts of the world outside in a corridor Wednesday as he questioned prospective jurors.

Four women were tentatively seated on the panel and three dismissed. Carter, who had hoped to seat a jury Wednesday, told attorneys he anticipates completing the selection by Friday.

The four tentative jurors selected Wednesday, subject to peremptory challenge later, were Carol Waller of San Francisco, wife of a loan officer at the Wells Fargo Bank; Barbara Lawson, an employee of the San Mateo Heart Association; Jean Witte, a Danville housewife and mother of three; and Marilyn Wentz of Hayward, a dental assistant with four children.

It appeared likely the defense would challenge the seating of Mrs. Waller because of her husband's employment in a bank.

Twelve jurors and four alternates will be seated to hear the case.

U.S. protection no longer enough: Belgian minister

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Belgium's defense minister says Europe can no longer rely on the United States for its military protection and that the Soviet-proclaimed effort to ease tension between the East and West is a dangerous illusion.

"Europe can no longer satisfy itself by trusting the Americans," Paul Vanden Boeynants said in a speech made available today. It was delivered privately to a conference of Christian business executives Wednesday.

"Today we are eating out of the Americans' hand," he said. "What will become of us if the United States' nuclear umbrella were to disappear tomorrow? We'd be in real trouble."

"Europe must unite not only politically but also militarily," he said. "It is a necessity for our security."

"People say that if something goes wrong, the Americans will help us," Vanden Boeynants said. "But let us be cautious. Although it is clear that America's interests, not America's duty, prevent Europe from falling under Soviet domination, it is also clear that the Americans will leave us to our fate if they realize that the Europeans are not prepared to defend themselves or contribute to the necessary effort."

Accusing the Soviet Union of "aggressiveness and expansionism," Vanden Boeynants condemned the reluctance of the North Atlantic allies to strengthen their armies in the face of the Soviet Union's continuous military buildup.

Missouri maps ready next week

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Missouri's 1976 official state highway map is ready for distribution, state Highway Department Chief Engineer Robert N. Hunter announced today.

The map become available Feb. 1 at the 10 highway department district offices located around the state.

The map shows all the highways which comprise the 32,000 mile state highway system and many of the revisions involving new sections of the interstate system in Missouri.

Hairy chest wig improves sex life

Dear Ann Landers: I have a word for "Elmer's Wife" who wanted to change husbands with the lady from Schenectady because Elmer had only six hairs on his chest while Mrs. Schenectady's husband looked like a gorilla at bedtime.

If Elmer's wife nags him into getting a chest hair transplant she should be hanged. It would be expensive, painful and time consuming. Please tell her Elmer can buy a "chest wig" at almost any hair supply house.

They are not expensive and they really do the job. A friend of mine bought one for her husband as a joke and now he wears it to work. (He's a construction supervisor.)

The chest wig can be obtained in any color—blonde, red, dark brown or black. He can have his choice—curly hair or straight, long or short. The thing is applied with an adhesive back and guaranteed to stay on underwater. Elmer could take a shower in it or even go swimming in rough waters.

My friend says that crazy thing has improved their sex life so much she wouldn't part with it for a million dollars. Please print my letter. Thanks, Ann.—Lending A Hand

Dear Hand: Well, you've provided me with my hairy story for the day. And I thank you.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently a young man in our office became very ill at work. He was taken to the hospital and died within four hours of a heart attack. Everyone was shocked because he was so young and appeared to be in excellent health.

My boss asked me to clean out his desk drawers and locker and take his personal belongings home to his wife.

The desk items were few and of no value. Then I was given a master key to open his locker. I found the usual—an umbrella, extra handkerchiefs, and a briefcase. I opened the briefcase (looking for business papers) and discovered dozens of love letters from a woman who worked in his department. I also found some unbelievably filthy pornographic pictures and magazines.

I threw everything damaging in the garbage can. Now I can't sleep at night thinking what would have happened had I not opened that briefcase before I gave it to his wife.

Please tell your readers no one lives forever. Death can come unexpectedly to anyone. Remind them that their personal belongings may reveal a heartbreaking secret to the ones they love most.—Glad It Was I

Dear Friend: Your letter should serve as a warning to all whose desks and lockers could not bear the scrutiny of a stranger's eye. I can attest to the fact that their name is legion. I've received several letters from wives who were not spared the agony. Thank you for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: Last week you printed (for the third time since I've been reading your column) advice to the effect that it is rude to drop in on friends (or even family) uninvited.

My sister and I are maiden ladies. We never call anyone in advance. We just drop by when we feel like being friendly. No one has ever said they weren't glad to see us. You must be very lonely, Ann. I'll bet if you printed your address you'd have lots of company. How about it?—Want To Be Neighborly

Dear Neighbor: I'm sure I would. Thanks for your concern. I've got all the friends I can handle and nobody ever drops in on me. EVER.

Assumptions require a second look

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—An economy in disequilibrium, as that of 1975 certainly was, leads to some results and assumptions that require a second look. For example:

—Many people have the notion that 1975 was a very bad year for savers.

In some ways it was, of course, because people were without jobs and others were hard pressed to make ends meet because of inflation. Moreover, inflation erodes the value of savings.

The savings rate, however, actually rose, and quite sharply. Whereas a range of 6 per cent to 6.5 per cent is considered average, the rate in 1975 ranged from just under 8 per cent to more than 10 per cent.

The savings rate is generally guided by the degree of consumer confidence, and last year that confidence was very low. As confidence is revived, the savings rate will tend to drop, perhaps very slowly.

A very important factor in the degree of confidence will be the unemployment rate, which remains high and is expected to fall only slowly, even by federal government officials.

The jobless rate is viewed by many workers as a barometer of their own job security. When the rate is high, they postpone purchases and put their money in the bank instead.

—Last year was a very poor year for new home construction. You might therefore believe it was a very poor year for the savings and loan associations that lend money for home purchases.

You are wrong if you believe that. Home lenders had a pretty good year. In fact, the U.S.

League of Savings Associations reported its members closed $54.8 billion of loans, the highest on record.

Three factors help explain what at first glance appears to be a mystery: Inflation, which pushed up prices; a healthy business in existing homes; and the availability of money to lend.

Whereas in 1974 the average price of an existing single-family house averaged $32,040, in 1975 it came to $35,180. While not always the case, higher prices generally require bigger loans.

While new home construction was off badly in 1975, the demand for existing homes rose. In 1974, the association members made mortgage loans on only 654,000 existing homes, but last year the total leaped to 1,220,000.

—Total cash sales of U.S. Savings Bonds hit a record high of more than $7 billion in 1975, the Department of the Treasury announced. Well, that record, like some others, should have an asterisk beside it.

Speed Reading Course To Begin at Sedalia

Arrangements have been made by the Institute of Speed Reading, Inc., to conduct a 24 hour course in speed reading. The course is open to anyone above the age of 13 and guarantees every graduate a reading speed triple that of your present rate and with at least an increase in comprehension.

After the eight week program a person can read any average length book in less than an hour and understand it better. In addition to speed reading the course also emphasizes improved study techniques, better test taking skill, and increased concentration and retention abilities.

The course requires a person to attend one class per week on the evening of their choice. For those who would like more information, without obligation to enroll, a series of Free one hour orientation lectures have been scheduled.

These meetings are free to the public and the course will be explained in complete details including entrance requirements, class room schedule and location. You need to attend only one of the meetings whichever one is most convenient for you. These free one hour orientations will be held as follows:

Monday, 26 Jan. at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, the 27th at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday the 28th at 7:30 p.m., and FINAL MEETING MONDAY 2 FEBRUARY AT 7:30 P.M. ALL MEETINGS AT THE HOLIDAY INN, SOUTH 65 IN SEDALIA.

Special student and family tuition available for those who qualify. Persons under 18 should be accompanied by a parent.

CIA sideshow

The Great CIA Sideshow may, at last, be winding down. It's not a day too soon.

The House Intelligence Committee issued its final report Monday and, true to form, leaked a variety of top secret information in the process. The White House accused the panel of including information in the report that it had agreed earlier would not be revealed.

Congressional security has consistently been so sieve-like that Rep. McClory of Illinois, the ranking Republican on the intelligence committee, said he had grave doubts about the advisability of setting up a permanent CIA watchdog committee. "I must confess at this point I am not confident a House committee could be trusted with this information," McClory said.

The New York Times, always eager for a story to make the U.S. look bad, ended up with a copy of the intelligence committee's report, from which it has published several stories.

Leakage of the report amounted to the "bursting of the dam protecting many of our secret operations and activities," said CIA Director William Colby. "The committee seems neither able to keep secrets nor its agreement," he added tartly.

In the Senate the story has been much the same — maximum publicity and damn the security. Chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho, to no one's surprise, has announced for president. His counterpart in the House, Rep. Otis Pike, D-N.Y., can be expected to follow suit momentarily.

This whole sad business has done incalculable harm to our nation's intelligence efforts. Our European allies are appalled at the manner in which we have permitted this to happen. Some are wondering if we've lost our collective minds.

It's a good question.

Keep it simple

It appears that the General Assembly cannot help tinkering with the Missouri license plate.

On Tuesday the House gave tentative approval to a bill making numerous changes in regard to plates, including one that would emblazon the motto "Show-Me State" on them.

A while back it was "The Cave State" they were pushing for; next year it may be something else.

Our sentiments are with Rep. Anthony Dill of Louis, who suggested that his colleagues go ahead and put the complete works of Shakespeare on the plates as long as they're at it.

For our money, we like the Missouri plate the way it is—simple, bold, uncluttered and untacky.

Let's keep it that way.

'Let's Make a Treaty' game

WASHINGTON — The United States has just signed a new military treaty with Spain. In exchange we will, of course, supply the Spanish with armaments so we can keep our bases there.

Buchwald

It seems that we can't make a deal with any country without giving them arms in exchange for friendship. There is a suspicion that the State Department has been influenced by all the TV game shows and it seems to me that since the American people pay for most of the military aid, we should at least be permitted to watch the U. S. hand out the stuff on television in a game show format.

This is just a suggestion. Every week the State Department would produce a TV program called "Let's Make a Treaty."

Henry Kissinger would be the master of ceremonies and the audience would be made up of ambassadors from all the countries of the "free world."

He would call out a number and the ambassador from that nation would jump up on the stage.

Henry would say, "Where are you from, sir?"

"Zambia," the ambassador would reply excitedly. (Applause)

"All right, I'm going to ask you a question. If you can answer it correctly I will give you $100 million. Are you ready?"

The ambassador, jumping up and down, says "Yes, yes."

"The question is: 'Who is the President of the United States?'"

The ambassador hesitates. "Gerry Ford?"

"That is correct!" Henry shouts, and he counts out $100 million. The ambassador hugs and kisses Mr. Kissinger as the audience goes wild.

"Now don't go away," says Henry. "You can keep the $100 million or give it back to me in exchange for what is behind one of the three curtains over there. Joan Braden, will you tell us some of the prizes that are behind the curtains?"

"Henry, we have the new version of the Hawk missile, a 1976 Super Sherman tank, a year's supply of cruise missiles, a complete nuclear energy plant which will be installed absolutely free and a squadron of F-15 fighter planes."

"All right, Mr. Ambassador," Henry says, "do you want to keep the $100 million or do you want to go for the prizes behind the curtains?"

The ambassador clutching the money looks out at the audience. "Keep the money," some ambassadors scream. Others yell, "Go for the curtain."

The ambassador says to Henry, "Can I consult with my government?"

"I'm sorry, we don't have time. What's it going to be?"

The ambassador hands back the $100 million. "I'll go for what's behind the curtain."

The audience applauds loudly.

"All right," Henry says. "He's going for what's behind the curtain. We have curtain number one, curtain number two and curtain number three. Which one will you choose?"

The ambassador hesitates as the audience shouts out, "TWO!" "ONE!" "THREE!"

Finally, he says, "Curtain number three."

The curtain opens and there is a pile of rotten wheat.

"I PREFER MOVING SECRETLY."

Merry-go-round

Rodino backed off from consumer bill

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — House Judiciary Chairman Peter Rodino, the fair but firm arbiter of the Nixon impeachment hearing, has been less heroic in championing the consumers.

Two years ago, he called boldly for a multi-billion-dollar consumer bill. It was urgently needed, he declared in a House speech, to control "skyrocketing food prices, energy crisis ... and powerful oil companies."

Yet after the echo of his brave words had faded, he dilly-dallied and shilly-shallied while business tycoons systematically sabotaged the bill.

The measure would encourage states to sue giant corporations for antitrust violations and award billions in damages to the public. It had the enthusiastic support of the attorneys general from 39 states.

But the bill was held up unavoidably by the impeachment hearings. Then Rodino selected as his new chief counsel Earl Dudley, an able, intense man with little antitrust experience.

There is evidence that Dudley worked against the bill behind the scenes. Nevertheless, it was approved overwhelmingly by a subcommittee and scheduled for quick ratification by the full Judiciary Committee last June.

But something funny happened to the bill on the way to the full committee. One of the nation's most powerful lobbies, the Business Roundtable, suddenly awoke to the importance of the bill.

The Roundtable is made up of about 160 of the country's largest companies, which operate facilities in almost every congressional district. Such industrial giants as Bristol-Myers, Continental Can, Exxon, General Motors, Ford and Kennecott Copper were mobilized against the bill.

The lobbyist's hand is quicker than the public's eye. So what happened next was too fast for the public to follow. But the Business Roundtable quietly assigned its able lobbyist, Arnold Lerman, to build a backfire against the bill.

He was a shrewd choice. For Lerman happened to be a former law associate of committee counsel Dudley. They had worked together on corporate cases six years earlier.

We have established that Lerman quietly warned Dudley the legislation was "a bad idea." Lerman also brought business tycoons to Capitol Hill to whisper in the backroom against the bill.

The pressure had its effect upon Rodino. On the day before his Judiciary Committee was supposed to meet on the bill, he summoned the subcommittee members to the Speaker's dining room for a surprise "briefing."

This neatly got around the House rules against secrecy. The legislative sessions are supposed to be open to the public, so Rodino pretended the meeting was an informal "briefing."

According to several who were present, Rodino quickly got down to legislative business. His enthusiasm for the bill, it became clear, was waning. He said that industry "pressures have been tremendous." He "would need everyone's support," he pleaded, before he could take the bill to the House floor.

This brought open grumbling from the bill's backers, particularly Barbara Jordan, D-Tex., and Ed Mezvinsky, D-Iowa. Rep. John Seiberling, D-Ohio, who had joined Rodino in sponsoring the bill, gamely tried to keep the bill alive but agreed to "unload" some provisions.

As a result, the full committee meeting was put off, and the subcommittee took more time to prepare a revised bill. The delay gave the business lobbyists time to regroup.

When the full committee finally met in late July, Rep. Charles Wiggins, R-Calif., a suave, conservative lawyer, managed to water down the revised version.

But at least a tough report was written for presentation to the House Rules Committee. In fact, it was too tough to suit Dudley who privately chopped the report in half and seriously weakened it.

Seiberling managed to retrieve the report and strengthen it. This took until September. Then Rodino delayed until November before making his presentation to the Rules Committee.

It was nothing like his passionate appeal of two years earlier. Even a friend acknowledged that Rodino's performance was lackadaisical, that he was "disastrously uninformed."

The business tycoons, meanwhile, shifted their attention to the Rules Committee. Under pressure from the big boys, the committee quietly caved in and tabled the bill.

Now Rodino has heard from the consumers, and he has made gestures to Speaker Carl Albert to revive the bill. But for the moment the bill is gathering dust in a cubbyhole.

Footnote: Rodino insisted at length that he still is committed to the bill and that the delays were not intended to give the Business Roundtable more time to sabotage it. He defended Dudley, who told us he wasn't influenced by his friend Lerman. The triumphant Lerman told us: "I think the committee did a public service in slowing the bill down."

Collateral Circulation

Nature has her own remarkable way of averting disaster even though the coronary arteries have started to harden — "collateral circulation." Neighboring arteries carry more blood than formerly to compensate for a narrowed vessel, and new arterial branches open up to help transport blood to where it is needed, according to the National Institutes of Health.

Conservative view

Back to politics for mails

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — More than four years have gone by since the old U. S. Post Office Department became the new U. S. Postal Service. The idea at the time — and it seemed such a good idea at the time! — was to get the mail out of politics. A dismal conclusion has to be voiced: We had better get the mail back into politics again.

Kilpatrick

That conclusion comes hard. The concept of a kind of private postal service was first advanced seriously by an old-line liberal, Lawrence O'Brien, but conservatives embraced it with whoops and hollers. Down with politicians! Up with businessmen instead! Private enterprise would do the job.

It was a noble experiment; it was worth trying; but it hasn't worked, and the best thing to do with experiments that go sour is to drop them.

One of the troubles is that the Postal Service created by Congress in 1971 has been only "a kind of" private corporation. It has been only a quasi-private operation — the sort of hybrid that George Wallace refers to contemptuously as a "psooo-do." The corporation inherited so many political liabilities that it could not create offsetting assets.

Three premises supported the new Postal Service: (1) Postal volume would keep rising, (2) mechanization would answer problems, and (3) business management would be successful.

None of the premises has proved valid. Except for second class (publications), mail is declining in volume. Mechanization has increased, from 25 per cent of volume in 1971 to 60 per cent in 1975, but the expected economies have not materialized. Without getting into personalities, it has to be said that business management has not been remarkably brilliant. The new managers of the Postal Service got suckered into labor contracts of a lushness almost beyond belief. The Postal Service has 595,000 employees; the median salary for clerks and carriers is $14,200, and the starting salary is $11,444. The contract prohibits lay-offs and provides an annual cost-of-living increase.

The Postal Service lost roughly $13 million in fiscal 1973 and $438 million in 1974. The deficit in the 1975 fiscal year came to nearly $989 million. The current year's deficit, despite rate increases, will be at least a billion again.

Brace yourself, now, for this melancholy forecast: If present trends continue — that is, if mail volume keeps declining, if the number of delivery points keeps rising, if inflation continues, and if present postal rates are maintained — the deficit will climb to $8 billion by fiscal 1981. Eight billion dollars!

Various options are available. The Postal Service could apply to the Rate Commission for further dramatic increases in postage rates, but it is apparent that the law of diminishing returns already is taking its toll. Private citizens are writing fewer letters; business houses are turning to other means of communication and delivery. The predictable growth of electronic banking will accelerate the decline in first-class mail.

The Postal Service could reduce profitless services. Abandonment of Saturday deliveries would save an estimated $350 million. Closing 42,000 small post offices could save $100 million more. But the Postal Service was created to make mail-handling better, not worse.

The Libertarian solution is for the government to give up a postal service altogether, and to let genuinely private enterprise tackle the job. The idea has appeal, but it is wildly improbable that a predominantly Democratic Congress would go along. A more realistic answer lies in reassignment of postal services, deficits and all, by the federal government. The dream of a mail system that pays its own way might as well be abandoned in favor of a system routinely financed in part by postal revenues and in part from the general fund.

This is not a happy prospect. Certainly it is not a happy prospect for those of us who believe, as an article of faith, that the role of the national government is too large as it is. But the fiction of a break-even quasi-private postal service has gotten us nowhere. It is like Gunga Din's uniform, which was 'nuthin' much before, an' rather less than 'arf o' that be 'ind. The sooner we face a policy decision on postal service, the better it will be.

At wit's end 'Momisms'

By ERMA BOMBECK

A while back, my son did an essay on "Things My Mother Taught Me."

Of all the wonderful, profound bits of wisdom I have passed on to him, he preferred to dwell on my logic: "If you fall off that swing and break your neck, you are not going to the store with me," etc.

A group of kids in a mass media class were enchanted with the column and sent me more "Momisms" as they remembered them.

You're welcome to read them ... if you can bear the pain of seeing yourself in print.

Commission chairman selected

Cleo Cauthon, Osceola, has been elected chairman of the Kaysinger Basin Regional Planning Commission (KBRPC), succeeding Fred Seewoester, Nevada.

The KBRPC serves Bates, Benton, Cedar, Henry, Hickory, St. Clair, and Vernon Counties.

Other KBRPC officers elected to serve in 1976 were: vice-chairman, A. E. Pray, El Dorado Springs; secretary, Ernest Carver, Clinton; and treasurer, Raymond Barrows, Appleton City. Governing board members from the seven counties in the commission, also elected recently, are: Bates County, Judge Charles Henry and Ed Robertson, both of Butler; Benton County, Jerry DeChant, Cole Camp, and C. W. Schildberg, Warsaw; Cedar County, A. E. Pray and Earl Roberts, both of El Dorado Springs.

Other board members are: Henry County, Judge Robert Eberting and Ernest Carter, both of Clinton; Hickory County, Doyle Riley, Hermitage, and G. R. Easton, Weaubleau; St. Clair County, Raymond Barrows, Appleton City, and Cleo Cauthon, Osceola; and Vernon County, Don Daugherty, Moundville, and Fred Seewoester, Nevada.

The KBRPC, an association of county and municipal officials in the seven counties, is concerned with the problems and needs of local governmental units and citizens. It is also involved in preparing plans and recommendations and providing technical help in developing, conserving and preserving resources in the seven-county area.

What causes skin ulcers?

Dear Dr. Lamb — Is there anything that will heal an open ulcerated varicose sore on the leg? Also what causes this? Is it hereditary?

Dear Reader — The skin breaks down and an ulcer forms because the area is not getting enough oxygen. The dilated varicose vein allows blood to stagnate in the tissues. Since the stagnant venous blood contains only a little oxygen, and swelling interferes with the movement of oxygenated blood into the area, the tissues lack oxygen. We call this "stagnant hypoxia."

The cause of the ulcer then, is the poor venous circulation caused by the dilated varicose veins. The treatment is directed toward prevention of pooling of stagnant venous blood. Such an ulcer would heal if you could stay in bed with the foot up so no blood would pool in the foot, but that is not very practical in most cases. The ulcer would recur when you got up.

Various pressure garments are often useful to help prevent pooling of blood and swelling. In many cases surgery is necessary to remove, or at least improve, the situation with the varicose veins.

There is a familial tendency to have varicose veins. Even so, you can do things that help prevent them. That includes avoiding constricting garments, particularly around the thigh, using support hose if your occupation requires long hours of standing and getting off your feet when you can.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I have an inactive thyroid and have taken three grains of thyroid for a number of years. My doctor just finished giving me the thyroid scan and the test shows my thyroid is still inactive and he has increased the thyroid.

I would like to know if there is anything that would make my thyroid active again or do I have to take pills the rest of my life?

I have a weight problem so I have to diet all the time and I am terribly sluggish.

Dear Reader — After a person has been taking thyroid in large amounts for a long time the thyroid often remains relatively inactive. Occasionally by using hormone preparations that activate the thyroid it can be stimulated. The thyroid is normally stimulated to action by a hormone (thyrotropic hormone) from the small pituitary gland under the brain.

Some patients do better on one thyroid preparation than on another. Your doctor may decide in time, depending on your response, to try one of the synthetic hormones.

Blizzard, Snow the men to see

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — When Dr. Gordon Snow contacts the Office of Emergency Services for a report on drought conditions, he could ask for Everett Blizzard.

Blizzard handles county requests for emergency declarations, and Snow is a special assistant in the state Department of Food and Agriculture.

And, in heading a task force studying effects of lack of rain and snow in California this winter, Snow says he confers with a weather forecaster for the state's Department of Water Resources named Rainwater.

EMS plan goal of area group

Efforts are underway to establish a plan for an area-wide Emergency Medical Services (EMS) program designed to improve emergency medical services in the seven-county Kaysinger Basin Regional Planning Commission (KBRPC) area, which consists of Bates, Benton, Cedar, Henry, Hickory, St. Clair and Vernon Counties.

An inventory of existing emergency medical services in the area is nearly complete, it was reported. This effort includes listing the number and type of ambulances available, number of trained medical personnel, communications capability of ambulance and institutions and the emergency capability of the various health facilities of the area.

Tentative plans call for possibly establishing an EMS advisory council to assess existing EMS conditions with the regional planning commission. After needs are determined and priorities set, this council would attempt to secure a government grant to fund the project.

This project is being administered through the Kaysinger Basin Comprehensive Health Planning Council in accordance with the Emergency Medical Services Act of 1975. The Missouri Office of Emergency Medical Services is also assisting in this area.

After the proposed plan is completed, it will be submitted to the State Office of Emergency Medical Services and then to the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) for approval before funds are approved. The plan must be submitted by April 1.

Uncle Sam sheds weight, grows younger

FORT DODGE, Iowa (AP) — That venerable symbol of patriotism, Uncle Sam, has shed the weight of years for Bicentennial 1976 and looks like a teenager. Actually, this Uncle Sam is only 17 years old.

Tim Larson, a high school senior, has taken to wearing an Uncle Sam costume to high school sporting events, elementary schools and appearances before civic groups.

As he makes his rounds, Larson distributes red, white and blue badges, with the message: "1776-1976: The First 200 Years Are Always The Hardest."

People are at first surprised at the sight of Uncle Sam, Larson said. "I walk around, crack jokes and listen to them complain about the government — mostly taxes."

Student reports

Mary Simon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Simon, Route 3, has been nominated as a candidate in the 1976 Missouri Princess Soya competition. A student at the University of Missouri, Columbia, Miss Simon will be vying to serve as the ambassador for the Missouri soybean industry.

The winner will be announced Feb. 3 and then be eligible to compete in the national Princess Soya competition in August in Kansas City.

Miss Becky L. Kueck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Kueck, 904 South Quincy, has been placed on the dean's honor roll for fall semester at Burge School of Nursing and Drury College, Springfield. Miss Kueck received the honor for her 4.0 grade point average on a 4.0 scale.

16th-ranked Roadrunners play host to Roughriders tonight

After a brief, two-game Kansas road trip, Bill Barton brings his 16th-ranked State Fair Community College Roadrunners back to the Fairgrounds tonight for a 7:30 p.m. non-conference game in the Agriculture Building against Crowder College of Neosho, Mo.

"This is going to be one of our toughest tests of the year," said Barton, who is still elated about his team's first appearance in the National Junior College Athletic Association basketball poll.

The Roughriders, 11-11, have two experienced performers in sophomores Leon Bush and Lamont McNair. Bush, a 6-6½ front-liner from South Bend, Ind., is one of the top scorers in Missouri junior college basketball with his 21.5 average.

McNair, 6-6 from Rocky Mount, N. C., carries an average of 13.4.

Either Charles Harvey, 6-5, or Mark Mackey, 6-6, will probably get the other inside starting spot.

Jim Stauber, 5-9, and Marty Rieger, 5-10, are expected to start in back court.

"Don't let their record fool you," says Barton. "They have played possibly the toughest schedule in Region XVI (Missouri) this season," he added, pointing to Roughrider clashes this year with Northeastern Oklahoma; Independence, Kan.; Seminole, Okl.; Southwestern (Oklahoma City) and Carl Albert (Poteau, Okla.).

Independence is currently ranked third in the NJCAA's poll. Southwestern is seventh and Carl Albert is tied for 19th. Although Seminole and Northeastern have not been ranked this season, they are perennial Oklahoma JuCo powers.

State Fair will be the fourth nationally-ranked team the Roadrunners have faced this season.

"That in itself speaks for the strength of their schedule," Barton said.

The Roadrunners are expected to start their five veteran sophomores, which include Charles Johnson (6-3) and Ray Steele (6-4) at the forwards; Lyonel Hardin (6-7) at the post; and Glyn Bennett (5-9) and Shelly Brown (6-1) at the guards.

Balanced scoring has been one of the keys for the Roadrunners success in winning 17 of their 19 games. Four players, led by All-Region XVI forward Johnson, carry averages in double figures. Johnson has a current mark of 22.4, followed by Hardin's 16.9, Steele's 14.0 and Brown's 13.5.

The Roadrunners have another home game Saturday night, when they host Longview Community College (Lee's Summit) in a conference game at 7:30 p.m. The clash is the annual homecoming at State Fair.

Portland hires new golf coach

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The new golf coach at the University of Portland is Jerry Mowlds, a longtime leading Northwest golfer who spent three years in the pro ranks.

Mowlds, who was an undergraduate at the school, is head golf pro at Columbia-Edge-water Golf Course. He turned pro in 1959.

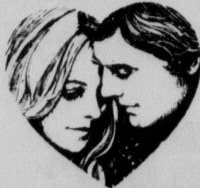

A four-time Oregon PGA champion, Mowlds also has won the Oregon Open and the Northwest PGA. He has played in three U.S. Opens.

Tampa owner to head group

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Hugh Culverhouse, owner of the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, has been named to a four-man delegation picked to represent President Ford at the winter Olympic Games in Innsbruck.

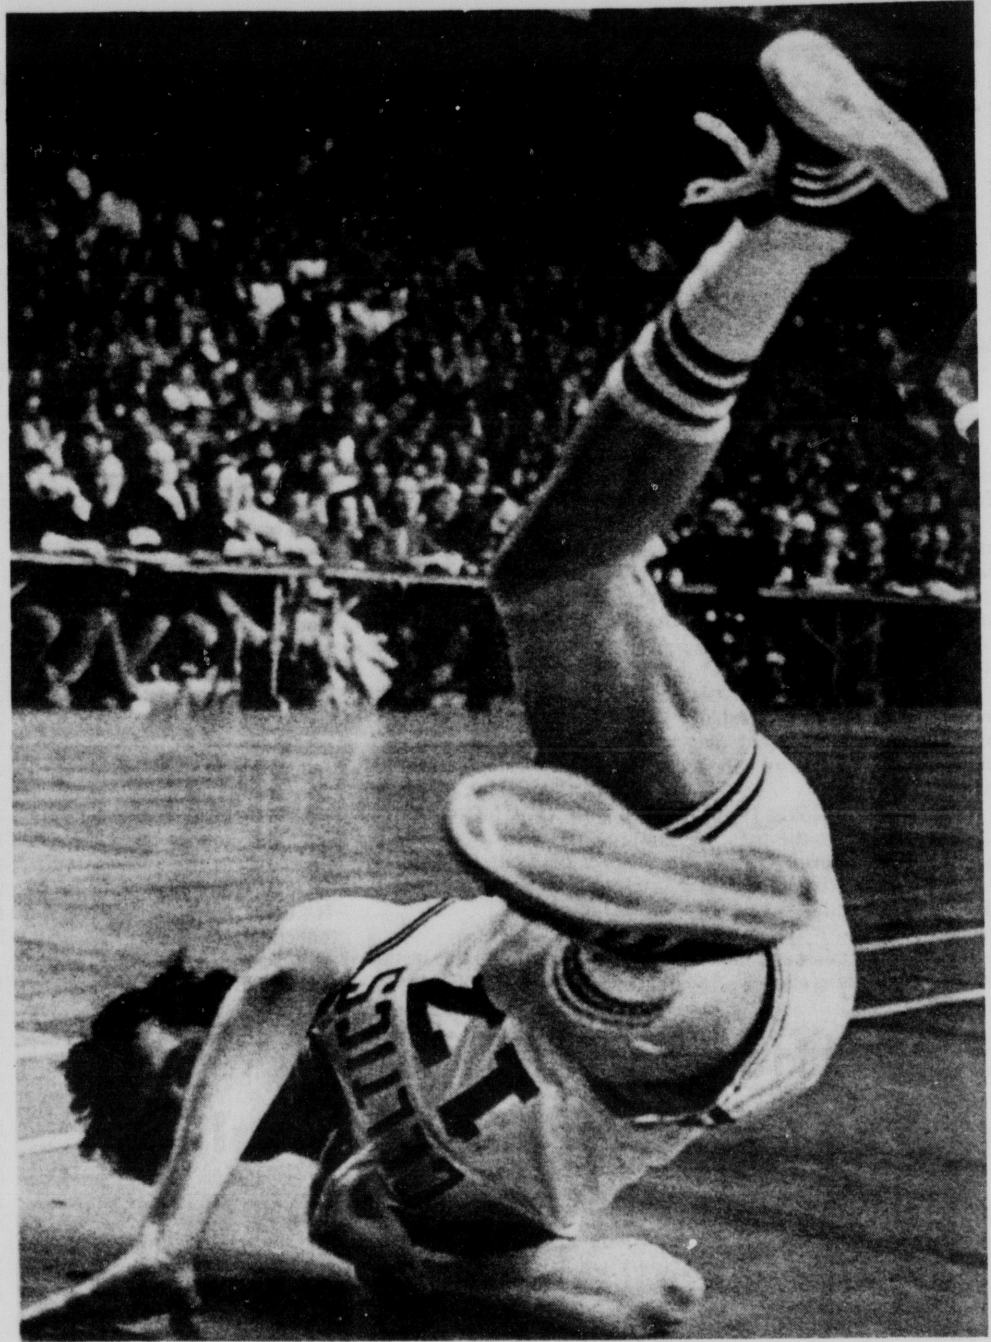

The National Football League club announced Wednesday that Culverhouse, a Jacksonville attorney, will carry the honorary title of ambassador. The official delegation is scheduled to depart New York Feb. 2 and return to the United States Feb. 7.

Falls short of record

Boston Celtics' talented forward John Havlicek takes a spill in the second quarter of Wednesday night's NBA game at home against the Atlanta Hawks. Havlicek scored 17 points in the game and is now only three points behind Elgin Baylor, the fourth-leading, all-time scorer in NBA history. Havlicek has a career total of 23,146 points. Although Havlicek fell short of overhauling Baylor Wednesday, he should crack the mark in this weekend's action.

Petraglia leads by 76

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Johnny Petraglia held a 76-pin lead over Earl Anthony after the first two rounds Wednesday of a $70,000 professional bowling tournament.

The Staten Island, N.Y. resident saw his six-game average of 242 dip to 230 for 12 games, but his lead increased from 13 pins.

Petraglia's total pin fall was 2,770 while Anthony, Tacoma, Wash., was at 2,694.

The commercial name of the tournament is the King Louie Open.

Close behind Anthony was Teata Semiz, Riveredge, N.J., 2,692 followed by Gary Mage, Bellevue, Wash., 2,665 and Steve Jones, Kansas City, 2,597.

A nine-time winner on the bowlers' tour, Petraglia was only 12 pins ahead of Anthony entering the evening's last game, but he rolled a 279 while Anthony finished with a 215 to make the difference. Simez made the biggest leap of the day. Tied for 36th after the first round, he jumped to third by spilling 1,429 pins in the night action with games ranging from a low of 215 to a high of 277.

MU catches fire in 2nd half

Missouri, Nebraska continue on Big Eight collision path

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Missouri and Nebraska retained their spotless Big Eight basketball records Wednesday night while Kansas squeaked past Colorado and Kansas State put down the heartbreak kids, Iowa State.

Missouri, 4-0 in the conference and 16-2 overall, overwhelmed a stubborn Oklahoma in the second half for a 72-58 victory.

Nebraska, 4-0, 13-4, funneled in six free throws in the last 90 seconds to prevail over Oklahoma State, 52-48.

Ken Koenigs' free throw with two seconds on the clock pulled Kansas to a 51-50 shading of Colorado, and Kansas State handed the game but luckless

Iowa State Cyclones their 16th defeat in 17 starts.

The 13th-ranked Missouri Tigers found themselves tied 36-36 at halftime by underdog Oklahoma. But, led by Willie Smith and Jim Kennedy, the Tigers ripped in 11 unanswered points to begin the second half and pulled away to their 10th straight victory. Kim Anderson led Missouri with 20 points, while Kennedy had 18 and Smith 17.

Rick McNeil, with 17 points, paced the Sooners, 0-4, 3-13.

Oklahoma State, led by Ronnie Daniel, rallied from a 42-32 deficit to a 43-42 lead over Nebraska with 4:28 remaining.

Nebraska, 4-0, 13-4, fought back into the lead, and Allen

Holder sank a pair of free throws as time ran out to give the Huskers their eighth straight triumph. Jerry Fort's 16 points paced Nebraska while Daniel got 17 for the Cowboys, whose record fell to 1-3 and 7-9.

Kansas, 2-2, 9-7, and Colorado, 1-3, 4-12, swapped the lead throughout the second half.

The Buffs' Dave Logan tied the game at 50 with eight seconds remaining by making good one of two free throws.

The Jayhawks grabbed the ball following Logan's miss and Koenigs was fouled by Tom Wentz.

Logan led the Buffs with 15 points and Larry Vaculik added 11. Norm Cook, with 16 points and a game-high 13 rebounds, was the dominant Jayhawk.

Kansas State used offensive spurts in the top of the first half and second half to down the Cyclones, who made effective use at times of a 1-3-1 zone defense.

The Wildcats, 3-1, 12-5, trailed by as many as eight points in the early going. Finally, down 19-13, they staged a scoring spree that gave them a 27-21 lead with more than six minutes left in the half.

Mike Evans was high scorer for the Wildcats with 24 points while Hercle Ivy totaled 28 for the Cyclones. Iowa State slipped deeper into the miseries and now stand 1-3 in the conference and 1-16 over-all.

Minnesota rocks K.C. Scouts as Bush makes coaching debut

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Minnesota's Pierre Jarry turned his first hat trick in the National Hockey League Wednesday night, a feat that spoiled the coaching debut of Ed Bush with the Kansas City Scouts.

The North Stars bombed the hapless Scouts 9-3. It was the highest goal total for Minnesota since March 1973 and Jarry's three-goal outburst was the first North Star hat trick since November 1974.

For Bush, it was a long night.

"I'm not going to get discouraged or downhearted," Bush said. "I've got to work with them. That's what I'm here for."

Jarry modestly gave all credit to linemate Tim Young, saying the young Minnesota center is going to be great. "We'll be in the playoffs come April," said Jarry.

Jarry, an early season acquisition from the Detroit Red Wings, picked up his 12th, 13th and 14th goals, capping Minnesota's scoring binge with the final goal of the game at 16:50 of the third period.

Ernie Hicke, who got two goals, ran his scoring total to 19 goals, best on the North Stars, and 14 assists while Bill Goldsworthy collected four assists, needing only the first one to reach 500 career points.

Scoring for the Scouts were Phil Roberto, Dave Hudson and Gary Croteau. Roberto's goal at 3:47 of the first period gave the Scouts a 1-to-0 lead that was rubbed out only 59 seconds later by Fred Barrett.

The North Stars went ahead to stay on Craig Cameron's goal at 10:58 of the first period. Dennis Hextall and Glenn Sather also scored for Minnesota.

In the other NHL games Wednesday night, the New York Rangers tied Buffalo 3-3, Washington surprised California 4-2, Chicago blasted Atlanta 7-3 and the New York Islanders trimmed Toronto 3-2.

Rangers 3, Sabres 3

The Rangers blew three leads and saw their winless streak extended to seven games, and only a sparkling 36-save performance by goalie Dunc Wilson held off the potent Buffalo offense.

Phil Esposito led New York with a goal and an assist in becoming the NHL's sixth-leading all-time scorer — passing Montreal great Jean Beliveau by scoring his 1,220th and 1,221st points.

Capitals 4, Seals 2

The Capitals, who went 25 games without a victory until last Friday, won their second game in three tries on third-period goals within three minutes by Gerry Meehan, Hartland Monahan and Harvey Bennett.

Legislation would toughen boat laws

Four bills, including one that would bring Missouri into conformity with federal boating laws, have been introduced for consideration in the current session of the General Assembly.

Besides bringing Missouri boating regulations into compliance with existing federal statutes, Rep. Carrol McCubbin's (R-Eldon) bill would give the Missouri Water Patrol the authority to enforce the requirements.

Missouri's laws on life jackets, fire extinguishers, lights and sounding devices are less restrictive than federal laws enforced in Missouri by the U. S. Coast Guard and those in neighboring states.

"The bill," says Col. W. C. Murphy of the Division of Water Safety, "is designed to eliminate the confusion that results from trying to interpret and comply with two sets of boating laws."

Nearly every boat in the state, he said, now meets the requirements of the federal law.

Legislation introduced by Sen. Emory Melton, (R-Cassville) would extend the law enforcement powers of the Water Patrol to all state and federal parks on Missouri lakes and streams and to 600 feet on land adjacent to the lakes. Presently, the patrol's authority ends at water's edge unless under "hot pursuit."

Waterfront property owners and other law enforcement agencies have expressed concern over the present limitation.

Sen. John Ryan (R-Sedalia) has patterned a bill after a model national boat noise act that would establish definite noise level standards that can be accurately measured. The present law, which boating officials feel does not define what constitutes an unacceptable noise level, is basically aimed at open exhaust or "drag boats."

Rep. Jim Strong (R-Jefferson City) has introduced legislation giving the Water Patrol the authority to remove swimmers from water considered unsafe because of the large number of boats operating in a particular area.

Judge ponders baseball suit

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A federal judge is making his decision on the legality of an arbitrator's ruling which struck down baseball's reserve clause.

All evidence, testimony and arguments in the case ended Wednesday. Judge John W. Oliver indicated he will try to announce a decision as early as possible, possibly by next Monday.

At stake is bargaining power in the current negotiations for a new basic agreement between the owners and the Major League Baseball Players Association. The reserve system, twice upheld in the past 100 years by the U.S. Supreme Court, allows a club to unilaterally renew a player's contract year after year.

The suit was filed by Ewing Kauffman, owner of the Kansas City Royals and supported by the 23 other owners. It seeks to overturn the ruling last month by arbitrator Peter Seitz on the grounds that the reserve system is not arbitrable under the basic agreement signed in 1970.

In his decision Dec. 23, Seitz ruled that pitchers Andy Messersmith of Los Angeles and Dave McNally of Montreal were free agents because they had played out the option year of their contracts.

Oliver's decision is expected to be appealed, possibly to the U.S. Supreme Court. But the winning side will gain great clout in the negotiations.

At the conclusion of the evidentiary hearing before Judge Oliver Wednesday, the animosity between the two sides was evident.

Louis Haynes Jr., general counsel for the National League, testified that negotiators for the players had agreed to some deliberately ambiguous language which now has returned to haunt them.

Richard Moss, representing the players, accused the owners of arrogance in saying they would have no bargaining power and that "industrial strife" might result if Judge Oliver rules against them.

Sophs post 51-41 victory over Bruins

Smith-Cotton triumphed over Columbia Rock Bridge in sophomore basketball action Wednesday night, 51-41.

Two Tigers reached double figures. David Braverman canned 13; James Smith followed with 11.

The Tigers took a comfortable lead in the second half with a 21-14 scoring edge in the third quarter and held off the Bruins.

The Tiger sophomores will travel to Jefferson City, Feb. 6.

Scoring

Smith-Cotton (51) — Albright 6, Braverman 13, Utley 6, Buckner 6, D. Smith 4, Cline 1, Koetting 2, J. Smith 11, Poole 2.
Rock Bridge (45) — Walli 3, Cady 2, Nunley 14, Schroeder 6, Lewis 10, Thompson 4, Walters 2.
Smith-Cotton 8 8 21 14—51

Main stadium will be ready for Games, but not finished

MONTREAL (AP) — The main Olympic stadium and swimming hall will be ready for the 1976 Summer Games in July although some of the facilities will be temporary.

Quebec Municipal Affairs Minister Victor Goldbloom, who is responsible for the Olympics installations board, told a news conference Wednesday the stadium will be completed at a more relaxed pace after the Games are over.

The news conference was billed two weeks ago as the moment for the announcement of a decision on whether the Summer Olympics were to take place.

"It is clear that the facilities will not be complete," Goldbloom said. "But facilities for athletes, officials and spectators will be sufficiently complete for the holding of the Games."

The optimistic prediction by Goldbloom was based on continuing good labor relations on the Olympic site.

"Success is of course conditional on the continued close cooperation of all concerned," he said, adding he hoped the workers' sense of pride would prevent any walkouts in the future.

While he said no specific assurance had been given that further labor disputes would not disrupt the current completion schedule, he said he was heartened by reports from board members concerning their daily meetings with union representatives on the site.

A "disaster plan" was still available, Goldbloom said, in case the stadium could not be finished in time for the opening. He refused to reveal details of this plan.

The minister would not say which facilities would not be completed by the Games' opening July 17 on the grounds that the information is contained in a progress report which will be given to the International Olympic Committee.

This report is to be presented to the IOC Executive Committee on Saturday and to the full committee on Monday in meetings in Innsbruck, Austria, where this year's Winter Olympics are being held.

The Canadian delegation to the IOC meetings is to be headed by Goldbloom and Roger Rousseau, president of the Montreal Olympic Organizing Committee.

The only indication of what facilities would be temporary concerned seating in the stadium which is to hold 65,000 to 70,000 spectators for the opening and closing ceremonies. Goldbloom said.

There may be more than the originally planned 15,000 to 20,000 temporary seats, he said.

Meanwhile in London, IOC President Lord Killanin said he deplored the huge amounts of money being spent on the Montreal Games.

Total Olympic costs are estimated to be a billion dollars with a projected deficit of $600 million.

He said he believed Olympic organizers could have avoided some of the effects of inflation if they had been quicker in getting their construction plans under way.

Schranz reaffirms stand that Games should be open to pros

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP) — Former skiing great Karl Schranz of Austria, who was barred from the 1972 Sapporo Winter Games for commercialism, is more convinced than ever that the Olympics should be opened to professionals.

"There should be 'Open Games' where the best athletes compete — rich or poor, black or white and without religious preference," Schranz, now 37, said.

Schranz, here for the 1976 Winter Games, said he stood by his outspoken attacks on Olympic amateur rules. He said he had no regrets about the dispute with the late Avery Brundage, then president of the International Olympic Committee (IOC), which led to his banishment from the Games four years ago.

The barring of Schranz in 1972 by Brundage nearly split the Games, and it fueled Brundage's claim that the Winter Games would die. But those Games have not died, and Schranz seems to have prospered.

"I was the most popular ski racer at that time and I became a sort of spokesman for the other Alpine competitors," he said in an interview. "His highness, Mr. Brundage, did not like my opinion, so I became the victim and the IOC threw me out."

At the time, Schranz, a two-time World Cup champion, claimed there were no pure amateurs among top class skiers and he admitted there were payoffs direct from ski equipment manufacturers — money forbidden by Olympic rules then in force.

"I never met Brundage. I was never allowed a hearing by the IOC at Sapporo," he claimed. "Perhaps they would have let me compete if they'd given me a chance to explain."

Schranz, a bachelor ski school operator and hotel owner in nearby St. Anton, admitted, "Sure I made money. I had to live like everyone else." But he denied as "exaggerations" reports that he pocketed up to $200,000 a year at the height of his amateur career.

Schranz's banishment from Sapporo — his last chance to earn the Olympic gold medal that eluded him in three previous Games — was treated as a national tragedy by the ski-crazy Austrians.

Looking at modified Olympic amateur rules that allow payments for income lost during training, Schranz said, "There's still no clear guidelines. I don't claim all top athletes are professionals. It's just that there are no amateurs. They must open up the Games to the best."

Schranz will work as an ABC commentator for the Innsbruck ski events.

Turnabout Wake Forest falls in overtime to No. Carolina

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Will the real Wake Forest basketball team please stand up?

At the beginning of the season, the Demon Deacons couldn't lose for winning. Now they can't win for losing.

"Right now, we just need a victory more than anything else to bring out the best in the team and get us back where we were in the beginning," Wake Forest Coach Carl Tacy said Wednesday night following an 88-85 overtime loss to fourth-ranked North Carolina.

The loss was the fifth straight and sixth in the last seven games for Wake Forest, an enigmatic team that at one time had a 10-0 record and a place in the nation's Top Ten.

The Demon Deacons included North Carolina, North Carolina

State and Maryland, three formidable Atlantic Coast Conference colleagues, among their victims earlier in the year.

But unfortunately two of the games did not count in the league standings and as a result, the onetime giant killers are saddled with a 1-5 ACC record and a dismal outlook for the near future.

"I think when you're in a winning rather than a losing streak like we've been in, you have a better chance of pulling out a game like we had tonight," Tacy said. "I think the team gave it everything they had and played well."

In other games involving ranked teams, seventh-ranked Maryland beat eighth-ranked North Carolina State 102-84; 10th-ranked Notre Dame routed DePaul 89-68 and No. 20 Virginia Tech crushed William and Mary 105-79.

Mitch Kupchak scored 26 points and Tom LaGarde added 19 to help North Carolina squeeze the life out of Wake Forest. Kupchak and LaGarde combined for five vital points in the overtime period as the Tar Heels outscored the Deacons 11-8.

The regulation game ended with the score tied at 77 as Wake Forest's Skip Brown missed what could have been the winning basket in the last two seconds. The victory gave North Carolina an ACC-leading 6-1 record and a 14-2 record overall.

Guards John Lucas and Mo Howard combined for 59 points, with Lucas equaling his career high with 34, as Maryland beat North Carolina State.

"This is a particular good win for us coming off two straight losses," said Maryland Coach Lefty Driesell. "I think it proves we still have an excellent team."

Adrian Dantley moved into second place on the all-time Notre Dame scoring list with 31 points to lead the Fighting Irish past DePaul. Russell Davis converted 19 free throws and scored 27 points to pace Virginia Tech past William and Mary.

Receiving coach moving to SMU

MIAMI (AP) — Steve Endicott resigned as pass receiving coach at the University of Miami to take a similar football coaching post at Southern Methodist University.

Endicott, 26, who formerly played for Oregon State, spent two years on Miami's freshman coaching staff before being promoted to the varsity last season.

Opening lead—♦ Q

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Forty years ago most bridge players believed that if a hand was worth an opening bid they had to overcall with it. They would stick in a two-diamond overcall with their four quick tricks. West would double and when the smoke had cleared away our hero would have taken his two ace-kings and the defense the other nine tricks.

South would say, "I had a good opening bid." Everyone would sympathize with him, particularly East and West. No one would point out that if he had kept his mouth shut East and West might well have landed at four spades-down one.

Today most players realize that it is unwise to overcall with a four-card suit at any time and that you really need a six carder for a two-level overcall.

If a modern player did want to bid with that 4-3-3-3 South hand he would make a takeout double. North would respond two clubs and probably would not be doubled. If doubled he would not go down more than two and might get out for one.

Ask the Jacobys

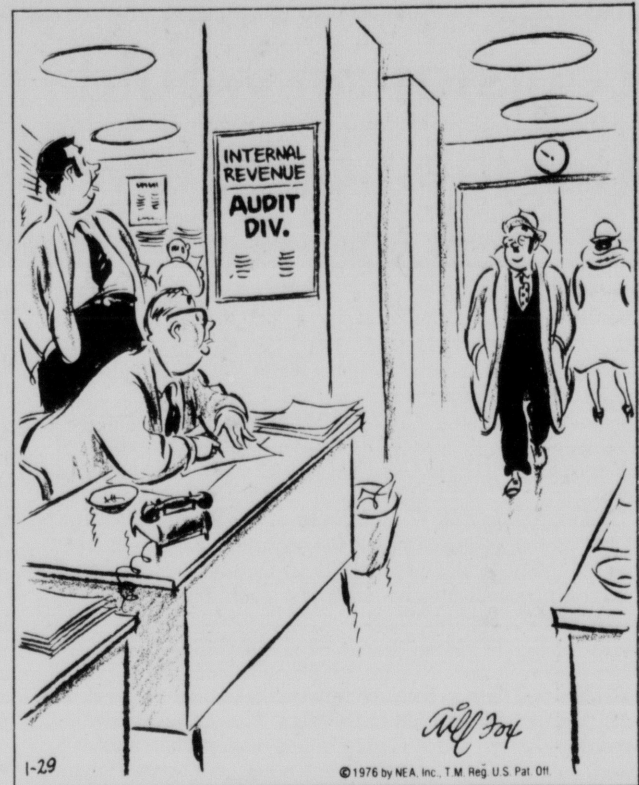

A Florida reader wants to know if in answering to Blackwood we count a void as an ace.

That question was partly answered in a recent article. The answer is a decided no, because partner may well have the ace opposite our void.

(Do you have a question for the experts? Write "Ask the Jacobys" care of this newspaper. The Jacobys will answer individual questions if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are enclosed. The most interesting questions will be used in this column and will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.)

Q. What's the lowest-priced, full-sized pickup?

A. Dodge. Manufacturer's suggested retail price for a Dodge D 100 conventional pickup is only $3,677. And that beats both Ford and Chevy. (Based on a comparison of manufacturers' suggested retail prices for 6 cylinder half-ton pickups excluding optional equipment, state and local taxes, destination charges.)

Q. Which full-size pickup got the best gas mileage?

A. Dodge. In the latest EPA tests, a '76 Dodge D 100 — powered by a 225/6 cylinder engine with a manual transmission — turned in an estimated 25 miles a gallon on the highway. And 18 in the city. Of course, the actual mileage you get will vary depending on the type of driving you do, your driving habits, your truck's condition and optional equipment. In California, see your dealer for mileage data for California equipped vehicles.

Q. Which full-size pickup has the biggest standard payload?

A. Dodge. The Dodge conventional pickup has the biggest standard payload of any pickup going. Bigger than Ford's. Bigger than Chevy's. Without beefing it up one bit, you can haul off a whopping 1,505 pounds.

Q. Who makes the only club cab pickup with 4-wheel drive?

A. Dodge. You can get a Dodge club cab with an extra 34 cubic feet behind the seat and rugged 4-wheel drive down below.

The trucks with all the answers are waitin' down at Dodge.
